

Faculty of Social Sciences

Study program: Language and Literature

Course Title: Pragmastylistic

Course Credits: 5 ECTS

Language of Instruction: Albanian

Course Description:

This course, which comes as an approach of two disciplines, Stylistics and Pragmatics, both in the linguistic direction, looks at language related to communication, social and individual needs, and functioning during its real, practical and living use. Stylistics, which occupies the basic part of the subject, studies from the point of view of secondary organization the use of language and the linguistic variation expressed in discourse texts. It tracks what are the features of linguistic tools and constructions in this organization, in order to carry out communication as effectively as possible. It also distinguishes other supplementary requirements, in accordance with the goals of the social and cultural tradition. In the second part, that of linguistic pragmatics, language will be seen in relation to its users. It focuses on language users and their conditions of language use, seeing the latter as determined by the context of society.

Course Goals:

Through this course, it is intended to acquaint students with the means and expressive possibilities of our language in all linguistic levels (phonetics, grammar, lexicon and word formation), with the system of its styles and discourse texts from the point of view of secondary linguistic organization, to then be able to carry out an analysis complete stylistic and pragmatic of a certain text.

Course Requirements: The continued assessments which contribute to course grading include: Attendance and participation during seminar sessions (5 points); Written assignments or discussions (15 points); Coursework (20 points);

Grading:

| | |
|-------------------------|------------|
| - Continued assessments | 40 points |
| - Final exam | 60 points |
| | ----- |
| - Total | 100 points |

.

Course Schedule: 4 hours per week